The following Resolutions were then read and adopted, the name of Wm. J. Bryan being appended.

Resolutions.

Be it resolved by the Democracy of the county of Adams in Convention assembled:

1. That the present revolt of the citizens of this Commonwealth against the abuses perpetrated by the Republican machine for years past and their united effort to remedy the evils and extortions practiced by the trusts and corporations under the protection of the Republican machine is in accord with fundamental Democratic principles and we heartily join in the great effort to cure the ills which afflict this Commonwealth. The nominees on our State ticket, as well as those nominated by this Convention, measure up to the Jeffersonian test: they are honest: they are capable, and they represent the principles for which they stand.

2. Believing that the building of trolleys will benefit the entire county, and realizing their necessity, we recommend the passage of a law giving such companies the right of eminent domain as well as the right to carry freight: that the fare on all railroads should be limited by law to a rate not exceeding two cents a mile: that boroughs should be given the right to compel railroads to place watchmen or safety gates at grade crossings to protect the lives of those who use the borough streets.

3. We heartily endorse our legislative candidate as a man worthy the confidence and support of all good citizens, and we believe that his election is vitally important in order that the reforms which will be advocated by our next Governor, Lewis Emery, Jr., may be carried into effect by a Legislature in sympathy with him.

4. The Democratic officials of Adams county have conducted their offices in the interest of the people of the county, and in such a manner that the light can be turned on at any time without bringing upon their names disgrace and upon their party humiliation.

5. We especially commend and endorse the Democratic Board of Directors of the Poor, and their officials, for their prompt and complete change of management of Alms House affairs. We commend them for calling to account the Republican officials in control of the Alms House for years past, and for their exposure of the system of graft therein prevailing. We commend them for collecting from these officials more than two thousand dollars over and above the amounts which these officials exhibited to the County Auditors as the amounts on their hands.

6. We insist that the work of investigation instituted by the present Board of Poor Directors be continued until all shortages are made good and the results be exhibited to the people of the county and to the proper prosecuting officials for their action. We feel that the voters of the county will never agree to the re-instatement of the old regime, which has been tried and found wanting, but will endorse the two honest, capable and upright men nominated by this convention today in order that the work of investigation instituted by the present Board may not be halted or thwarted.

7. We deplore the death of David A. Conover, one of the present Board of Poor Directors. In his death the county has lost an honest and capable official, whose whole soul was in the correction of abuses existing at the Alms House and the collection of the moneys withheld and retained by former officials.

8. We condemn the law establishing the State Constabulary as being inimical to the principles of true Democracy and hereby urge our representative to vote for its repeal.

9. That we recognize Hon. William J. Bryan, as the Tribune of the American people, because of his sterling integrity and his unselfish devotion to the fundamental principles of good government.

That he has endeared himself to millions of his fellow citizens, because of his fearless denunciation of corruption in the administration of the national government and because of his prophecies concerning the power and influence of trusts and aggregated capital being detrimental to the welfare of the people.

10. That Hon. C. H. Dutera, J. L. Butt and Geo. W. Schwartz be appointed and elected Conferees to meet with the Conferees of the Democracy of York County for the purpose of selecting and nominating a Congressional nominee for the District consisting of York and Adams Counties, and that the Officers of this Convention be authorized to deliver to said Conferees such credentials as may be necessary to properly constitute them as such.

We further declare that in case the Congressional Conferees from York and Adams Counties, in joint conference, shall deem it advisable to nominate a Congressional candidate from Adams County, that Hon. C. H. Dutera of Littlestown, Pa. is our choice for said office.

G. M. Neely, Chairman.
D. H. Deardorff,
J. G. Decker,
G. B. Pittenturf,
Seb. H. Weaver, Sec'y.

Upon motion the officers of the convention were authorized to fill any vacancy occurring on ticket or to make any other nominations to complete ticket. The convention then adjourned, bringing to a close a thoroughly harmonious convention. It was composed of representative Democrats imbued with the idea of making a united harmonious fight to put Adams county in the front in the reform movement sweeping over the state. The ticket nominated is one every citizen interested in good government can give his support to and work for. The ending of the convention was a Democratic love feast for victory and reform with Lewis Emery, Jr.

Gold From Hunterstown Mine.

The Reliance Mining and Milling Company of Hunterstown shipped a car load of gold ore recently to the Philadelphia Cyanite Company to have the gold extracted. The ore is valued at $30 of gold to one ton of ore. The local manager of the mine has always insisted that there is plenty of ore in the mine that would average a good paying quantity of gold. If this can be continuously demonstrated it should be an easy matter to develop Hunterstown and surrounding country to undreamed of extent.

A canopy was erected in the yard and there the ancient Jewish ritual took place. First the groom was married, then the bride, and then the two were joined in marriage with the ring. The ceremony concluded with the groom breaking the glass goblet with his heel, this act illustrating that bride and groom should keep faith or married life might be as easily shattered as the glass. The wedding began about 7 o'clock and lasted a half hour, but the celebration following, the feasting and rejoicing lasted it is said until daylight Monday morning. A large number of friends from this vicinity and out of town attended the wedding.

Charges of Doctored Milk Sold.

Dr. B. H. Warren, State Food Commissioner, before starting on a two weeks' outing in Virginia last week, said that he expected to be in good shape for bringing the men who sold doctored milk to the soldiers at the Gettysburg encampment into court soon after his return. He has given notice to Governor Pennypacker that he will expect full assistance in the work of having these parties convicted and sentenced to prison in Adams county where the trials will take place. He further said that under no consideration would he relent in his determination to place the milk dealers in jail, as fines in this instance will not meet the seriousness of the case. Names of parties charged have not yet been given out but it is said no local milkmen are in any way implicated. That the doctored milk was brought from a distance.

COMPLETE CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I will be glad to give anybody suffering from eczema any information regarding Cuticura Remedies. When my little girl was about a year and a half old there developed small pimples on her face which went into a scale which threw off a little watery substance. Her head was also affected with it. She used to scratch until it bled, making very bad sores. We tried two or three salves, including borax. They did not do any good, so I got some Cuticura Soap first, and then used the Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills. They completely cured her, and we have had no more bother with it. Anything you want to publish regarding this will be O. K. Yours respectfully, Wm. F. Knox, 1216 So. 35th St., Philadelphia, Pa., June 10, 1905."

ANOTHER CURE

"I suffered from falling hair and dandruff, and also pimples on the face for about one year, and have been using medical treatment during that period without any satisfaction, until advised by friends of the Cuticura Remedies. I began using them, and in a short time they proved successful. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all who suffer from troubles of the skin, scalp, and hair. I remain, yours truly, Ben. I. ## ROBERT GRIER COOKE INC.

HAS BECOME A STRONG PUBLISHING HOUSE

Story of Unique House Developed by Native of the County in New York City.

Robert Grier Cooke, whose ancestors were natives of Adams County, has succeeded in establishing a strong progressive publishing house in New York City. The house has made a name for itself in a very short time for its work along original lines and has become one of the unique establishments of that great city. The following story of the house has been recently told.

The story of the rise and progress of a successful publishing house usually presents, even to the most casual eye, so much that is of real human interest that it is not dull and seldom fails of wide reading. When the story is that of the remarkably rapid growth of a business absolutely unique among the publishing houses of a great city, and this growth is at variance with the prevalent notion that the day of the smaller publishing houses has passed—that none but the older and more firmly established houses can succeed nowadays—the reader's interest is quickened appreciably. The story of Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., is such a story and is told in an admirable way in a catalogue, or announcement book just about to be issued.

Several years ago when one of the well known younger publishers of New York City sold out his business to another publishing house of an old and valued name, he gave out an interview to the newspapers, in which he said that the day had gone by for the continued and successful existence of the so-called small publisher. He said that the great aggregations of capital were absolutely sure to take away the most valued stock in trade of such small publisher after the stock in trade showed itself conspicuously. The newspapers at the time commented upon this and cited it as another evidence of the malleability of the smaller to compete with the larger, in any business. In this case the work related principally to general publishing, and doubtless there was more than a grain of truth in the explanation given. At the time, a distinguished newspaper publisher, who was also a connoisseur in art, and an authority on all things pertaining to art—art publications, art in printing, etc., said that he believed that the proper explanation in this case had been given, but that the day of the small publisher was just as much at hand now as ever, if distinction and originality were features, and new fields were created. That largely explains the reason for the founding and successful growth of the unique house known as Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., whose dominating note of development is in the execution of private commissions for many persons who have not known where to go when seeking something which neither the printing house nor the general publishing house could furnish. It is a fact that houses like these frequently refer inquiries to Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., as pre-eminently the concern best qualified to undertake such commissions. A man in Chicago not long ago, desired to have a book issued in memoriam of a friend of his. He was referred to the house in question. The friends of a woman in Massachusetts desired to perpetuate some beautiful poetry which she had written. They naturally went to Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., inasmuch as publishing houses in general do not consider it profitable to publish much poetry, no matter how excellent its quality and, of course, many printers do not know how to give it distinction and originality which the setting of verse requires, however well they may perform the mechanical part.

The art collector, or the possessor of beautiful things of all kinds has practically no other house to which to turn in such matters, and through its experience in having handled works for the most important collectors in the country, the owner of a valuable collection naturally feels assured of the care that his treasures will receive here, and hesitates to take the chances of turning elsewhere, no matter how well some other concern may be equipped for other lines of work. It is safe to say that, in the line of fac-simile reproductions, no where else in this country, and possibly no where else in the world, has better work been produced. Here there are departments of genealogical work, ecclesiastical printing, bookplates, binding, correct stationery, engraving, etc., and specialists in these lines to make these products different from what, and better than may be obtained elsewhere.

All these taken together make a house unique in its character. It is situated on Fifth Avenue, in the heart of New York City, and is rapidly becoming the Mecca of the people from all over the country seeking a solution of their printing and publishing problems, both personal and commercial, with individuality and the proper kind of distinction. In addition to all that, the repeated publication of books, for general sale, books that have attracted wide-spread attention and the disposal of large numbers of copies, such as "The Roosevelt Doctrine," of which more than 50,000 were sold; "Caruso's Book," "Those Sun Editorials," Frances Aymer Mathews' "A Little Tragedy at Tien Tsin," etc., have attracted universal favorable attention to this house, which is constantly attracting able and experienced specialists to its staff.

Editor Gettysburg Compiler:
Through the kindness of Mrs. Mary Ann Rhine of your beautiful and historic city, I have a copy of the Gettysburg Compiler of July 4 with its very interesting story of battle days of July 1, 2 and 3, 1863.

The name of the wounded soldier Smith comes home to me with much feeling. Through the great kindness of some South Carolina soldiers I was carried to the Rhinehart house and from there to the Miller house. With a couple of old rails from a fence and their blankets rolled over the rails to form a stretcher they carried me. Mr. Miller was a tanner as well as a farmer and kept me for more than a week. Then a New York soldier, A. H. Wallace, who became a citizen of Gettysburg, secured a horse and harness from one stable and a spring wagon from another place, and this was hard to do for Uncle Sam had nearly every kind of horse and vehicle pressed into service in caring for the dead and wounded. With this rig Mr. Wallace procured a bed from some of the ladies and with the help of David Culp's family, Aunt Polly Culp and her daughter Mary Ann Culp, afterwards Mrs. Henry Rhine, I was taken to the home of David Culp in town. Here delicacies and supplies of every kind were to be had.

These people, one and all, with other friends, under the guidance of a kind and overruling Providence made it possible for me at this time to write these few uninteresting lines, called forth by the reading of the account of "Battle Days of '63" in the Compiler.

Very truly,
Oscar S. Smith.

ONLY A MASK

Many are not being benefited by the summer vacation as they should be. Now notwithstanding much outdoor life, they are little if any stronger than they were. The tan on their faces is darker and makes them look healthier, but it is only a mask. They are still nervous, easily tired, upset by trifles, and they do not eat nor sleep well. What they need is what tones the nerves, perfects digestion, creates appetite, and makes sleep refreshing and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Pupils and teachers generally will find the chief purpose of the vacation best subserved by this great medicine which, as we know, "builds up the whole system."

Baking Bread.

The action of yeast on dough converts some of the starch into sugar. Then the sugar is made into carbonic acid gas and alcohol. When the dough is baked the alcohol is driven off. If the bread is underbaked some of the yeast may remain unkilld, and such bread by being kept may have more of its starch changed into sugar. Thorough baking kills all yeast, and keeping of such bread does not cause any ripening. Stale bread is more digestible than new bread solely because it is more easily masticated.

Children and Influences.

The reason why children so easily contract the mien, gestures and habits of their surroundings is that they have no power of resistance—everything outside them is stronger than themselves, and they have to borrow from all outward influences for their own growth; hence they are good, cheerful and contented or bad, morose and discouraged, just according to their surroundings.—Marchette-Balow.

His Little Claim.

Mrs. A.—Don't you know, I really have an attachment for this piano. The Maid—Yes, and the gentleman who was here when you were out said he had an attachment for it also. Mrs. A.—Indeed! Who was he? The Maid—The sheriff, mum.—Chicago News.

Treasure Good Health.

How few of us stop to count good health as a great blessing! We are so busy grumbling over some financial wrong that we forget that all the money in the world would profit us but little if we were invalids.

Honest About It.

Kind Lady—Poor man! Are you really anxious to earn a good dinner? Truthful Thomas—I'm more anxious for de dinner dan I am t' earn it, ma'am.

All travel has its advantages. If the passenger visits better countries he may learn to improve his own, and if fortune carries him to worse he may learn to enjoy his own.—Johnson.

A Curious Watch.

In the year 1794 a handsome and curious present was made to George III. by Arnold, a celebrated London watchmaker. It was a repeating time-piece, set in a ring, and was about the size of an old fashioned silver three cent piece. Though it weighed less than five pennyweights, it was composed of 120 different pieces and was provided with the first ruby cylinder ever made. For this little mechanical marvel Arnold received from the king a present of 500 guineas.

LETTER FROM UNION SOLDIER

After Reading Recent Issue of Compiler Mentioning His Wounding.

In the COMPILER of July 4, 1906, appeared a story of the experiences of battle days, which many of our readers have reported as thoroughly enjoying. In the story mention was made of a wounded Michigan soldier named Smith, brought to the Rhinehart home by Confederate soldiers. A copy of the COMPILER of that date reached this soldier who wrote us the following interesting letter:

Redford, Mich.

Then a New York soldier, A. H. Wallace, who became a citizen of Gettysburg, secured a horse and harness from one stable and a spring wagon from another place, and this was hard to do for Uncle Sam had nearly every kind of horse and vehicle pressed into service in caring for the dead and wounded. With this rig Mr. Wallace procured a bed from some of the ladies and with the help of David Culp's family, Aunt Polly Culp and her daughter Mary Ann Culp, afterwards Mrs. Henry Rhine, I was taken to the home of David Culp in town. Here delicacies and supplies of every kind were to be had.

These people, one and all, with other friends, under the guidance of a kind and overruling Providence made it possible for me at this time to write these few uninteresting lines, called forth by the reading of the account of "Battle Days of '63" in the Compiler.

Very truly,

DISTINGUISHED PICNICERS

Harney, Aug. 2.—The Farmer's Picnic held in Obler's Grove, Taneytown was largely represented by citizens from our village and vicinity. Gov. Warfield and Congressman J. Fred C. Talbot of Maryland and Congressman J. C. Goulden of New York were the distinguished speakers on this occasion.

Luther Bushey and wife of Freedom spent last Saturday with the family of S. C. Shoemaker. They were enroute from Gettysburg.

Last week while engaged in hauling oats A. J. Lambert employed by E. G. Sterner slipped and fell from the overden to the barn floor a distance of about fifteen feet, fortunately no serious injury was received, besides a strained hip and a general shaking-up. With rare presence of mind a fatal injury was averted.

House of Citizen Party Burns.

Prof. W. I. Book, principal of the Gettysburg High School, owns a house in Waynesboro. During a severe storm last week his house was struck by lightning. The tenants were absent at the time. Almost instantly following the flash of lightning the roof was in flames, big volumes of smoke going skyward. The firemen quickly answered the alarm and the flames were extinguished before they got below the attic. The lightning struck the north chimney, passed through attic to south side and took the rain spout to the ground. The contents of attic were destroyed and walls of house were damaged by water. The loss on property is said to be $200, covered by insurance.

Fer tickets; An' let 'em ketch us thier' away from school—

Jimmy crickets!

The minister above all others must be on constant guard that there are no omissions or commissions of his own which may be pointed at. He must be able on general principles to preach at mankind, and point out their failings, and not be in a position to have the finger pointed at himself with remark. Why don't you take your own medicine? The minister above all others are those who are presumed to be most obedient to the law. Yet we have found from the records in the court house of this county a good one on the preacher.

There are about two dozen people living in this county supposed to be joined in lawful wedlock within the last five years, yet if they made an attempt to prove their marriage by the best evidence would find themselves in a hole. That is the official record at the office of the clerk of the courts would show that while licenses had been issued yet there was no record of the marriage. The best evidence of the marriage is not the certificate given the newly married but is the official record showing license issued and the recorded return of the ceremony.

Strict obedience to the law would require that within 30 days after the ceremony the officiating minister must return to the clerk the certificate showing the marriage ceremony performed and if this return is not made within 30 days the minister is liable to a big fine, just think of it $50. Why it might take a good many marriage fees to catch up with one fine. The easiest thing for the minister would seem to be when he is making out certificate for parties to make out the certificate to be returned to the clerk of the court. If this was put in an envelope at once and addressed to the clerk, the duty of the minister would be over and there would be no danger of a fine.

Why do the ministers delay? Is it because some blushing bride has con-

***

Let us see whether we can't get the imagination to working. Suppose a license was issued to something supposed to be in the image of a man. He took one who supposed she was his best girl to the ministers and they were married, no witnesses. They say to the minister keep this quiet as long as you can, for they are not going to live together at once. The 30 days are gone, the minister has forgotten. The villain, for this is kind of a story, discovers that no certificate was ever returned. The minister dies. The villain destroys the certificate given, admits license but asserts that there had never been a marriage. The villain may have been the son of one of those Pittsburghers that grew to be millionaires over night, and he is prepared to swear his wedded wife and mother of his child out of any share of those inherited millions on the ground of no marriage. According to the story of a court trial going on in Pittsburgh, there are some natives out there prepared to swear to anything. But now wouldn't the above be a pretty chain of circumstances to make trouble, and made possible because the minister did not certify to the Court officer the fact of the marriage.

The moral of this little preachment is that those who preach obedience to law should illustrate the preachment by going through their desks without further delay, hunting out all overlooked and forgotten marriage certificates and send the same at once to H. T. Walter, Clerk of the Courts of Adams County, Gettysburg. At the same time resolve never to delay sending in marriage certificates as soon as the ceremony is over, for nothing is to be gained by delay unless it be a peck of trouble for the other parties.

Young Mr. Pitts—What are you smiling at, dear? Mrs. Pitts—I was just thinking how you used to sit and hold my hand for an hour at a time before we were married. How silly you were! Mr. Pitts—I wasn't silly at all. I held your hand to keep you away from the piano.

"Make yourselves nests of pleasant thoughts," counsels Ruskin. Bright fancies, satisfied memories, noble histories, faithful sayings, treasure houses of restful and precious thoughts which cannot disturb or pain make gloomy or poverty take away from us—houses built without hands for our souls to live in—these things are not for earth alone; they are a part of the treasure that may be sent over.

Buffalo Calves.

Buffalo calves, as a rule, are born in April and May. They are active, vigorous little creatures, mild eyed as domestic calves, but possessing much greater strength and endurance. In a few seconds after birth they can get on their feet, and in twenty minutes they are fit to fight for their lives. Usually it is unnecessary for them to defend themselves at this tender age, as a buffalo cow is quite capable of attending to any business which may arise in connection with the defense of her precious baby.—Washington Star.

No Answer Handy.

This is only worth the telling, writes a correspondent, because it contains a retort which, though a triumph of inconsequence, seems to me quite unanswerable. I happened to be reading some obvious newspaper proofs in a train when the good natured man next to me, with the intention no doubt of making himself agreeable, asked, "Ah, are you connected with the press?" I intimated briefly and perhaps not over-courteously that it was none of his business. He persisted that it was a quite civil inquiry, which I met with the remark that I had not asked him whether he was a clerk or a shop assistant. As he was obviously neither, this nettled him. "If I knew," he said, "what newspaper you belong to, I would never buy it again."—London Chronicle.

SHAVE WITH HOT STEEL.

An Old Cutler's Advice to Men Who Use a Razor.

"Whenever I hone a razor," said an old English cutler, "I always give some advice with it, free, gratis, and I take great satisfaction in knowing that I have made shaving easier and more comfortable for more than 10,000 men. Almost every barber will tell you how to strap a razor, but it takes a cutler to tell you how to care for your strap and how to get the best work out of your blade.

"A swing strap, canvass on one side and horse hide on the other, is the best. Always hold it taut and draw the razor lightly, but swiftly, from heel to point. If you let the strap sag you will put a round edge on your blade. Don't forget to cover your strap or put it away in a drawer after using. If it hangs in a bathroom near a window the dust and grime get into it and soon take the edge from your razor. Whether you keep the strap covered or whether you don't, rub your open hand over the two surfaces to free it from dust.

"But what I consider my most valuable advice is how to do away with shaving paper entirely and at the same time improve the cutting quality of the razor's edge. Nine men out of ten shave themselves in a room where there is running hot water. Now, the way to get a most gratifying result is this: Lather thickly and well and let it remain on the face half a minute before you begin to shave. If you have time wash it off, for with it will come the grit and dirt that you have loosened up in the pores of the skin, and then apply a second coat. It will be as soft, smooth and clean as new velvet.

"Now turn on the hot water faucet and let it run. Hold the razor under the stream until it is heated. Then take a slanting, or diagonal, stroke, like a farmer does with a scythe, not a square pull, and you will be amazed to find how beautifully and easily the hot blade cuts the beard.

"When it is filled with lather hold it under the running hot water instead of using shaving paper. This will wash off the lather and at the same time heat the blade again. Don't be afraid of taking out the temper. That would be impossible if you put the razor in a kettle and boiled it. Try the hot blade and you'll never shave with the cold steel again."—New York World.

POISONS IN TOBACCO.

Tobacco destroys the taste, smell and digestion.

Tobacco kills mental, moral and physical vigor.

Tobacco paralyzes the mucous membranes and glands.

Tobacco's most dangerous poison, nicotine, is without antidote.

Tobacco contains prussic acid, ammonia, carbonic oxide and nicotine.

Tobacco contains stronger poisons than opium, alcohol, absinth or chloral.

A single leaf of tobacco or a single cigar contains enough of this poison to kill a man if applied properly.

Nicotine is the most deadly poison known to the pharmacopoeia. A single drop or a grain will kill a large animal.

Nicotine resembles prussic acid in appearance, effects and activity. Nicotine's victims die in violent convulsions.—New York American.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture from backache, rheumatic pain, any ill of kidneys or bladder, Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills. A cure endorsed by thousands. Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift any-thing, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

"A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

A VERITABLE HORSE SHOW

John Robinson's Splendid Array of Imported and Domestic Equine Beauties a Horse Show in Itself.

Horseflesh has always been more a matter of fad with the owner of the John Robinson Shows than one of business, for if a horse caught his fancy the price was a secondary consideration, and the result is the show boasts of the finest lot of horses in the circus world.

From a magnificent herd of Arabian whirlwind steeds of the desert, lithe limbed racing thoroughbreds from Kentucky's blue grass region, deep-chested English jumping horses, and the horse markets of the world furnished the hundreds of broad backed draft horses, all thoroughbred Norman and Percheron stock, down to the diminutive Shetland and Welsh ponies, it is a horseman's paradise, this show of equine supremacy.

The advance heralds tell of the coming of the show to our city on Thursday August 16th, and the lovers of all that is to be admired in horseflesh will enjoy the treat.

Mysteriously Shot

A stray bullet mysteriously hurried through the air, struck the calf of the leg of George Weaver, a ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weaver, of Midway, while the lad was witnessing a baseball game at Hanover last week. The first intimation the lad had of the wound was a stinging sensation in his leg, with a clot of blood visible on his stocking. He suffered little pain, and it was some time after the accident that the nature of the wound was discovered. On his arrival home an examination was made and a hole was found through which the leaden pellet had penetrated. The wound is painful, though not serious, and the lad is resting comfortably. From where the bullet came is a mystery, as no one near the boy heard the report of a firearm.

NOTICE.

The Democratic County Committee of Adams County elected on August 4, will meet at the Globe Hotel on Saturday, August 11, 1906 at 10.30 a. m. for the purpose of organization and to transact such business as may be presented.

S. MILEY MILLER,

Chairman Democratic Co. Committee.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

The county ticket nominated by the Democratic County Convention on Monday is made up of the best citizens of the county, men of unquestioned reputation able and capable men to carry on the work of reform and good government. Democracy of Adams county is enthusiastic in the support of reform and good government as demonstrated by the resolutions adopted, pledging the party and candidates to the square deal in the county and state. Adams county is in the front line with Lewis Emery, Jr., to do battle in the interests of the people. The old regime must not only be abolished but it must be made impossible for any such regime to get into control in county and state.

David A. Guise, Democratic nominee for Legislature, is one of the best citizens of Liberty township, one whose every act will be governed by the highest and best types of citizenship for good government. He will, if elected, support Lewis Emery, Jr., in all the reform legislation pledged by the Democratic and Lincoln Republican platform, to redeem the great Keystone State from the condition resulting from corrupt political control.

Emanuel G. Trostle gave 22 months of his life to a Rebel prison and refused better conditions and exchange rather than help the cause of Confederacy. He will give the same faithfulness to his county as he gave to his country. Noah W. Sell, the sterling, honest blacksmith and farmer of East Berlin will give the county institution the strictest kind of management. Democracy records in these two men, good citizens pledged to carry on the work of better management and best business methods at the County Home. They will carry on the reform instituted when Democracy took hold at beginning of the year.

John M. McKin has grown to manhood in old Mt. Pleasant. He has been a cigar-maker and a foreman in a garage and is prepared to give a good account of himself in selecting for jury duty the best citizens of the county.

LARGE OUTLAY FOR THE N.G.P.

Why Not Organize for a Permanent Camp at Gettysburg.

What a gold mine the National Guard of Pennsylvania is to Gettysburg can be appreciated to some extent by the fact that the warrants for the pay of the troops while here aggregated $147,699.22. The warrants were sent last week to the three brigade headquarters breaking all records for prompt payment of the troops at a division encampment. It is expected that all troops will have received the pay before last Saturday, or within one week after the close of the camp. The First Brigade received $47,290.03, the Second Brigade $47,719.19 and the Third Brigade $52,690.00. This pay of the troops does not include the provisioning of the division for ten days, the making ready of camp for the guard, the transportation charges, the great quantity of work done by citizens here in hauling and furnishing supplies. When every bill is paid the grand total is away over the $200,000 mark and often close to $300,000.

Even this total does not represent the total amount of money spent. Many of the guard arrange to borrow their pay ahead from any available source and the opinion is ventured that there are few guards who have anything left from their pay. They spend not only their entire pay but much more they have saved for the annual outing or vacation. A very large sum is put into circulation by a division encampment and the largest portion spent comes to Gettysburg and is distributed here in a thousand and one ways.

Gettysburg has always been called upon to share a small part of the expense, which has run from $5000 to $3,000 and the yield from the money so spent has exceeded the profits of any business in this place. A better paying investment could not be asked or dreamt of.

What Gettysburg and the surrounding country interested in having this harvest should do, would be to organize to secure the permanent camp site here. Delays are dangerous. The officers in authority are unanimous that there is no camping ground in the state to be named with Gettysburg. There is no other furnishing a study of real battle movements. The commanding general was enthusiastic over the camp this year, as also brigade commanders, officers and men.

It is said that the Governor has hesitated in giving his consent. It ought to be possible in some organized way to have the Battlefield Commissioners join with the citizens and bring every pressure to bear upon a decision in favor of Gettysburg. If the present administration withholds approval the new administration is but five months ahead and the organized effort could be prepared to push the matter strenuously at that time.

Why not organize for a permanent camp of the National Guard at Gettysburg.

A Pleasant Occasion.

The Y. W. C. T. U. of Arendtsville held a very pleasant and profitable meeting at Guernsey the evening of the 1st at the home of Misses E. Belle and Mary E. Griest.

Preceding the meeting a business session was held at which time the following named officers were elected: Pres., Miss Mary E. Griest; Vice Pres., Mrs. Wm. Boyer; Rec. Sec., Mrs. Rev. Koser; Cor. Sec., Mrs. Geo. Boyer; Treas., Miss Melissa Smelser; Supt. Guernsey Loyal Legion, Miss Alice R. Longsdorf; Supt. Arendtsville Loyal Legion, Miss Ella J. Weidener; Assistants, Miss Stella Trostle and Miss Mary Reiges.

The literary program for the evening was opened by singing two hymns. Rev. Koser conducted the devotional part of the program, "Nearer My God to Thee" was next sung. Business followed reading of minutes and four new members were gladly welcomed.

Misses Edna Hartman and Elizabeth Sheely gave a duet "Someday." I've drunk my last glass" was recited by Miss Lottie McCans, this was followed by a paper by Miss Alice R. Longsdorf. A chorus of which M. Geo. Boyer was chairman came next. Miss Mary E. Griest, the Pres., explained that part of the program would be given by the L. T. L. members to celebrate the birthday of Miss Anna A. Gordon who is world's secretary of Loyal Legion work, also vice-president of the National W. C. T. U.

Miss Elizabeth Sheely, Ames Sheely, Guy and Roy Raffensberger gave a quartette.

Mrs. Geo. Myers read a very interesting account of the early life and work of Miss Gordon.

The following class of girls who are studying for L. T. L. diplomas took part in an exercise entitled "Making the Flag". Misses Myrtle Watkins, Hilda Hess, Bertha Hughes, Anna McEhner, Mae Watkins, Edythe Peters, each one placing in turn a stripe, first red, then white, until the flag was complete except the corner of blue dotted with stars which was added last by Wallace Peters. At the close of this exercise Miss Myrtle Watkins very appropriately recited "The Flag". The collection was taken at the close of an address by Rev. Koser of Arendtsville. Miss Bertha Cleaver of York recited, "A Word that was not too late." The large audience seated on the lawn, the moonlight night, excellent music and interesting program made the occasion one to be remembered.

Distant Railway Rumbles

The Secretary of the Commonwealth has granted a charter incorporating the Washington and Gettysburg Railroad Company. The route described is from a point in Freedom township at the Maryland line and from there to connect with the Gettysburg and Harrisburg railroad at the Round Top branch. The capitalization is $80,000 and James W. Legore, of Legore, Md., is President of the Company.

Last week's issue of Carroll Record of Taneytown states that this proposed Washington and Gettysburg railroad has representatives going through that section securing rights of way, the majority of the land owners having reached an agreement as to damages with the railroad people. The proposed road will touch the northern edge of Taneytown and cross Monocacy in the neighborhood of Milton Fisher's farm.

The Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg railway, an electric road was given a franchise through Frederick for seventy-five years by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen. The proposed route of this road is from Frederick to Thurmont with Gettysburg in the far distance. This railway company closed an option last week on corner of Market and East Fourth St., Frederick. The site will be used for the erection of a passenger station. They have secured an option on another piece of ground to be used for erecting car barn. The company expects to commence the building of road about Sept. 1. Frederick and neighborhood contributed $50,000 toward stock subscriptions.

There has been a persistent trolley rumor recently that the proposed extension of the Hanover and McSherrystown line to Littlestown is being sidetracked and will run through Edgegrove to Conowingo Chapel, Centennial, Irishtown, Bonneauville to New Oxford thence along the old York pike to Gettysburg. An electric road from York to Hanover seems a certainty and with a continuation of road to Gettysburg the entire distance from this place to Philadelphia, 150 miles, could be travelled by trolley, except to cross the Susquehanna River.

On the western side comes the report that the Chambersburg and Gettysburg Electric Railway Company are preparing to extend their line over the 15 miles between Caledonia and Gettysburg.

FINEST BANK NOTE PAPER.

Where the Material For Our Greenbacks is Made.

The national flag flies over the "Coyne mill," owned by the Crane family at Dalton, Mass., because all the paper for the United States greenbacks is made there. It is one of a group of mills in which the Cranes have made paper for more than a century. The founder was Zenas Crane.
Before he could get the first mill started he had to have a large quantity of logs. But logs were scarce in those days. The Italian had not then arrived, the junk shop was unknown, and, although the rag buyer passed through the streets of Boston once a week, he had not yet appeared in the western part of the state. This resulted in an appeal to the people, based on high economic and patriotic grounds. Handbills appeared with the headlines in large type: "Americans, encourage your own manufactures, and they will improve! Ladies, save your rags!"

They were carried to all the homes and shops in Berkshire and adjoining counties, urging "every woman who has the good of her country and the interests of her family at heart" to save her rags and send them to the new factory or to the nearest storekeeper, "and a generous price will be paid." When the mill was ready the rags were there in abundance, and operations at once commenced. The working force consisted of four men, two girls and a small boy, with Zenas Crane as superintendent and chief proprietor. The paper was made in hand molds, and the output was 100 pounds a day. Today the output is many tons of the finest bank note paper.—

THE WIND BELL.

How It is Constructed in Japan, Its Original Home.

The wind bell, as its name implies, is made to ring by the action of the wind—in fact, the wind bell is not a bell at all, strictly speaking, but a contrivance composed of a number of pendants suspended in a circle from a ring and hung close together so that they will come into contact and produce sounds when swayed by the winds.

Some wind bells produce sounds that are pleasing and musical. Some are made with glass pendants, some with pendants of metal; some are very small and simple in construction, others are large and massive and elaborate.

The original home of the wind bell is Japan. In its simplest form it is composed of a number of narrow strips of glass, perhaps six inches in length, suspended lengthwise from a wire ring about two inches in diameter.
Within the circle formed by the strips thus suspended is hung by one corner a little square piece of glass halfway down the length of the long strips, the strips and the square piece ornamented with various Japanese characters and designs. This wind bell may be hung up wherever a breeze will strike it and blow the strips into contact with one another and with the square suspended among them.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Artificial Birds.

In very early times men began to experiment with a view to making artificial birds and animals that would imitate the motions of living creatures, and if we are to believe the records, some of the artists in that line were remarkably successful.

Archytas of Tarentum, who lived in the year 400 B. C., constructed an artificial pigeon that could fly, but which was not able to resume its flight after once alighting.

John Muller, a German of great mechanical skill, constructed an artificial eagle, which on the entry of Emperor Maximilian into Nuremberg flew out to meet him, and, returning, alighted on the city gate to await his approach.

A Parson's Swearing.

"Parson" Blodgett, a former local preacher residing in Linden, had in front of his house a watering trough freely patronized by people riding by.
One evening a man hurriedly drove up to water his horse, and the wheel of his wagon struck the trough violently. The "parson" came out barricaded and cried: "Hog rabbit to hemp seed tobacco! Can't you drive straight?"

"Go in and shut the door," replied the driver, "and next time you want to swear, parson, do it like other men."

A Funny Siamese Custom.

They have a very funny fashion in Siam. When an inferior comes into the presence of a superior he throws himself upon the ground. Then the superior sends one of his attendants forward to see whether the prostrate man has been eating anything or has any offensive odor about him. If he be blameless in this respect the attendant raises him from the ground, but if he be guilty the attendant straightway kicks him out.

Liquor in Candies.

"Practically every known liquor, as well as whisky and brandy, is made up into candy in one form or another," says a Chicago confectioner.
"You can get in bundles of various kinds creme de menthe, orange, kummel, Chartreuse, cherry brandy or benedictine."

A Wall Street Story

(Original.)

During the first one or two years of the century speculation in Wall street, to use a forcible expression, "boiled over." The merchant prince, the lawyer, the doctor, the clerk, the coachman, the housemaid were all "in it."
About that time I got into the "kettle" myself with a thousand dollars that had been left me by an aunt. Stocks kept going up, and I doubled my money. When summer came on I put it all in the common stock of the Northern Pacific railroad preparatory to returning to the country. With my $2,000 I bought 200 shares, my broker lending me what was needed to complete the purchase, holding my stock for security. The price was put.

I went to the mountains to join a party of which Miss Gylling was a member, with a view to closing a winter's courtship, and entering upon a contract of marriage. She appeared to be much pleased to see me, but somewhat constrained. I did not know it at the time, but she was not quite certain that I was a desirable parti, financially. I was quite certain that I was not. I had but $2,000 in the world, and a recession of 10 per cent in the value of the stock in which it was invested would wipe it out as chalk figures may be wiped from a blackboard.
But it was love, not money, that I was considering, and I supposed Miss Gylling was influenced solely by the dictates of her heart.

Miss Gylling soon showed that she was temporizing with me. She did not wish me to make a declaration until she knew how I was situated financially. I supposed she was not sure she loved me, cast about for some other girl to whom I might devote myself, thus giving Miss Gylling an opportunity to learn how a prospect of losing me would affect her. Little Agnes Worsley, whose plump figure, round, rosy cheeks and laughing eyes were pleasant to look upon, seemed to me a fitting person for my purpose.

When it was evident that my attentions to Miss Worsley were not pleasing to Miss Gylling I inferred that the latter had a better knowledge of the state of her heart, and, taking advantage of this fact, I made my proposition. I was disappointed that she did not fall into my arms and whisper
"Yes." She did no such thing. She regretted having led me too far, though she "liked me very much," and gave me hope that I might be accepted in time. Chilled by this reception of my declaration, I turned away to meet a telegraph boy, who handed me a dispatch. Opening it, I read:

"One hundred and fifty bid for Northern Pacific. Shall we sell?"

Going to the writing room of the hotel, I wrote an order to sell, and handing it to the boy directed him to send it at once. Miss Gylling came into the room as I was going out and asked me if I had received any bad news. I was so excited at having made $10,000 that I told her of my good fortune, though, not caring to be known as a speculator, I did not give her the method by which it had been acquired.

For the rest of the day she seemed at a loss how to treat me. One moment she would appear to favor me and at another to repulse me. Just before separating for the night she promised to give me an answer the next day and led me to believe it would be favorable.
In the morning I received a telegram from my broker asking why I had not replied to his inquiry. I at once went to the telegraph office and found that the boy who had carried my message had been run over by an automobile and the order to sell had not been telegraphed. I wrote a duplicate order to sell and handed it into the receiving clerk, then went to the hotel. As I entered I heard a man say, "What's the matter with Northern Pacific?" A few minutes later a message followed me from the telegraph office from my broker.

"Shall we sell Northern Pacific? One hundred bid."

Here was a loss of all my profit, and from the message it looked as if the stock would go lower. Miss Gylling came up, and I handed her the message, saying that it advised me of the loss of the $10,000 I had made the day before. She looked somewhat disconcerted, as though the loss or something connected with it annoyed her and, seeing her mother across the hall, left me to join her.

I was sitting on the piazza, feeling very much disgruntled over my bad luck, when Miss Worsley came along.

I wanted some one to sympathize with me and told her how I had made $10,- 000 and lost it. She not only sympathized with me, but encouraged me to hope something might happen that there was no prospect of happening—a delightful trait possessed by some women with more heart than practical sense. A boy stepped up to me and handed me a telegram:

"Sold 200 Northern Pacific at 1,000."

"That stupid telegraph girl has written 1,000 for 100," I remarked.

Just then a man passed me reading a newspaper, and I saw in scare headlines:

"Northern Pacific 1,000."

I asked him what it meant, and he said there was no doubt that 1,000 was bid for the stock, but little or none was for sale. In my ecstasy I threw my arms about little Miss Worsley and kissed her.

I telegraphed for a repetition of the notice of sale and found myself in possession of $20,000.

Miss Gylling did not get the news of my success in time to tell me in person, but she wrote Miss Worsley complimenting me on it. My wife turned me round to kiss me again in stocks, and we are very happy.

THE CARIBOU PARADE

MIGRATIONS OF THE GREAT HERDS OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Animals Are Strong and Gallant Swimmers and Take the Water
Like a Wild Fowl—Their Leaps
When Chased by the Gray Wolf.

The great caribou herds of Newfoundland migrate seasonably, and no one but an actual witness of these migrations can form an adequate conception of the marvelous number of deer which the island contains.

It is estimated that the number which crossed the Exploits river at one point during ten days in the autumn of last year exceeded 1,000. This crossing ground is only one of scores of similar trails.

Somewhere about the middle of September the migratory tide set southward, the bands, with fawns, forming the vanguard of the long procession.
The lazy stags hang in the rear until some storm more severe than ordinary gives an unmistakable earnest of the approach of winter.

Then all alike hurry toward the sheltered districts in the south, taking a straight course over bowlder strewn mountain heights, through tangled and obdurate masses of timber, across mountain torrents and immense lakes.

During winters of unusual severity the animals often draw quite near to the settlements on the south coast, whereupon the settlers, armed with fearsome firearms, such as sealers used some fifty years ago, straightway proceed to decimate the herds with volleys of buckshot. The price of caribou venison at such times in the city of St.
John's has been known to drop to 2 cents a pound.

The foes of the caribou other than man are not numerous. Although the big gray wolf is still reported on the northern plains in considerable numbers, it is now seldom encountered in the interior. Having formerly existed in large packs, it is supposed that a migration must have occurred across the winter ice does of the Belle Isle strait to the coast of Labrador.

Even such a redoubtable beast of prey as the gray wolf could at no time make certain of a successful foray upon an animal endowed with such great speed and endurance as a well grown caribou. A trustworthy old Newfoundland trapper says that he once witnessed an exciting chase by wolves of a couple of pickets, or two-year-old caribou stags.

Both sides doubtless were going at their utmost pace. He measured the bounds of the caribou and found them eighteen feet, while the wolves only cleared fourteen feet, so that the caribou easily gained on them when close pressed.

So much ahead were the caribou at times that they rolled over on their sides in the run to cool their panting and heaving sides and seemed to gather new strength and refreshment from the act.

Another enemy of the caribou fawns has of late years quietly replaced the wolf, the stealthy and bloodthirsty lynx canadensis. The island at this date swarms with these fierce cats.

Antlers are common to both sexes of the caribou. There are rare occasional stags with short legs and compact bodies which never carry antlers and show no rudimentary growth, and there also are some few does devoid of horns.
A Newfoundland guide tells of seeing a dozen mature caribou in company, and only one, a nearly white stag, carried antlers.

The caribou is a strong and gallant swimmer. Each limb is like a paddle, the extended hoof answering to the blade. In the winter the frog of those enormous hoofs becomes completely absorbed, so that its shape grows concave, while very sharp, shell-like edges grow well out on the margins, assisting the animal immensely in crossing frozen lakes and scaling the steep sides of slippery rock precipices.

It is an interesting sight to watch the herds taking water with as much un-concern as wild fowl. The enormous thickness of their dense coats of hair, doubtless helps to float their bodies, high above the surface, giving a buoyancy almost equal to that of a cork jacket.

While swimming they rest their underjaws on the water, with nostrils slightly elevated, and carry their white seats erect. Should they suddenly catch a whiff of wind from the hunter they give evidence of their excitement by bouncing twice or three almost entirely clear of the water, causing a tremendous commotion.

In their migration they are usually seen to travel on the lands (deer paths) in single file, the stags as a rule, bringing up the rear. The most forward and alert sentinels of the bands are the barren does. Next come the does with fawns, always prepared to give warning to their kind of danger. All the savagery of the interior of Newfoundland are scared by well defined leads, wild birds, the herds invariably move for and follow the birds' flight.

Eating Fruit.

We have always maintained, says Health, that a mixed diet is the one best suited to man under existing conditions, and it therefore naturally follows that we cannot indorse the frutiarian ideal. A diet consisting solely of fruits would sustain life for only a limited period. Fruits are extremely valuable in the dietary, mainly for the following reasons: They furnish a liberal proportion of the organic salts needed by the body, they supply a large amount of water in its purest form, they aid digestion, and the majority of them have a laxative effect. When people complain that fruit disagrees with them it is presumptive proof that they have eaten it improperly. Fruits should never be eaten at the beginning of a meal and seldom at its close.
